REAL ESTATE

WithersRavenel has over 24 years of experience in providing environmental services to the banking and real estate communities. Our knowledge of the industry can help your business transactions run more efficiently and decrease your business risks. We understand the importance and consequences of time and service costs and with each project, we strive to provide environmental solutions and avoid roadblocks resulting in superior customer service.

By striving to deliver efficient solutions to environmental issues, projects are able to proceed to construction. If contamination is found, we have the expertise and capability to assist with the preparation of engineering plans - including the proper handling of contaminated soil, groundwater, and/or air- to allow development to continue.

We have a proven track record in completing work for commercial real estate transactions, lender financing, and foreclosures. We also have experience in Small Business Administration (SBA) loans and loans guaranteed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).
