

ASSESSMENTS & investigations

ENVIRONMENTAL

Environmental concerns are often perceived as hindering or prohibiting development, but WithersRavenel focuses on identifying and addressing challenging site conditions to enable projects to progress safely.

Our team performs a variety of environmental assessments and investigations to prevent or mitigate negative environmental impacts on property, wildlife, and citizens. We can identify the source or sources of contamination, delineate the extent of the hazard, determine any risks to the surrounding area, and map migration pathways.

With this information, we can guide clients toward informed decisions about complying with environmental rules and regulations while minimizing costs.
